

Happy #TableTennisDay

Author: Paul Stimpson

Posted On: July 18, 2018

It's National #TableTennisDay, with hundreds of events all over the country giving thousands of people the chance to pick up a bat and join the party.

From a match atop England's highest point at Scafell Pike to events in clubs, schools, shopping centres and even a museum, it promises to be a busy and vibrant day.

Commonwealth Games bronze medallist Maria Tsaptsinos and double Paralympic medallist Aaron McKibbin will be challenging members of the public at our main event in Milton Keynes.

Don't forget to share your photos and videos of the day on Twitter, using the hashtag #TableTennisDay – and please send photos to marketing@tabletennisengland.co.uk so we can include them in our round-up of the day.

There are loads of chances to win prizes too. Can you master our Serve Yourself challenge, come up with the most interesting location for a match or devise the best improvised bat? Click here for more details of our challenges – you could win signed England shirts and other prizes!

Whatever you are doing, we hope it's one fantastic day!

Downloaded From:

<https://newsarchive.tabletennisengland.co.uk/news/archived/happy-tabletennisday/>