Liam Pitchford & Paul Drinkhall are through to the doubles quarter-finals at the Swedish Open, but Pitchford has exited the singles at the hands of Dimitrij Ovtcharov.

The doubles pair were due to face Chinese greats Ma Long and Xu Xin in the last 16, but an injury to world and Olympic champion Ma Long meant the Chinese pair, seeded No 2 here, had to withdraw.

It put Pitchford & Drinkhall, who are ranked No 17 of the pairs in the competition, into a quarter-final against eighth seeds Tomokazu Harimoto & Yuto Kizukuri of Japan at 10.45am UK time on Friday.

Meanwhile, English involvement in the Men's Singles came to an end today when World No 5 Ovtcharov beat Pitchford 4-0, avenging the defeat inflicted on him by Pitchford at the Czech Open in August.

Pitchford, who dropped one place to No 24 in the new world rankings released today, held game points in the first and fourth games but went down 13-11, 11-7, 11-4, 13-11 in the last-32 clash.

Speaking after the match, Pitchford said:

I was disappointed with how I played, but he played a solid game and didn't let me get into it. There's plenty to take from it and work on for next time though.
