It's time to snap up your tickets for the PG Mutual Nationals – and our members can take advantage of an exclusive early-bird discount if they buy before the tickets go on general sale on Friday!

Tickets are on sale from today and all members of Table Tennis England get 20% off when they book their places at our flagship event.

The best players in the country will converge on the David Ross Sports Village at the University of Nottingham on March 1–3 to battle it out to become 2019 national champions.

As well as our Team World Cup and Commonwealth Games medallists, the top para players – standing and wheelchair athletes – will also be showcasing their talents, so it's an event not to be missed by any serious table tennis supporter.

With concessions available for under-18s, pensioners, students and disabled customers AND extra savings for those who buy a three-day ticket, this really is a great exclusive offer for our members. You can also choose to add a discounted event programme to your purchase.

To access these offers, all you need to do is log in to the membership benefits section of our website and follow the link for tickets.

The early-bird discount offer is open to all our paid members (that is, those who hold Player or Licensed membership) and also to Associate Members, newsletter subscribers and previous ticket purchasers.

The early-bird discount ends when tickets go on general sale on Friday December 7 – so don't miss out, get yours today!

There is also the chance to purchase a limited edition Christmas gift package, which consists of a Christmas card signed by a member of the England squad! This is limited to one per order and can be added at the checkout page.
