

Big additions to National Conference schedule

Author: Paul Stimpson

Posted On: February 07, 2019

More not-to-be-missed sessions have been added to the schedule for the National Conference on March 30–31, with an emphasis on getting more young people and women and girls into the sport.

Among the new sessions is a workshop on Fundamental Movement Skills delivered by experts from the English Institute of Sport and which will link with the launch of our TT Kidz initiative.

Also new on the agenda is an action plan to drive female participation, plus workshops on income generation for clubs and coaching and officiating opportunities through Table Tennis England.

There will also be updates from the England Performance team and our Mass Participation team.

These sessions are added to an already wide-ranging programme for the event – click here to view the updated schedule.

One-day tickets for the Conference in Leicester start at £19, while two-day tickets, including overnight accommodation and tickets to the Pride of Table Tennis Awards dinner on the Saturday night.

Click here for more information and to book tickets.

Further additions to the workshops and the list of speakers will be revealed in the coming weeks.

Downloaded From:

<https://newsarchive.tabletennisengland.co.uk/news/archived/big-additions-to-national-conference-schedule/>