 Will Bayley has recently arrived home from Rio de Janeiro after winning the Brazilian Open for the disabled. Currently ranked no 5 in the world he continues to rise up the rankings and hope to reach as high as second in the world by the time the next ranking list comes out

Will has got a condition called arthrogryposis affecting his hands and feet, he has also overcome cancer in his short life currently 22 years old.

Will is currently training full time at the English Institute Of Sport 6 hours a day and is one of the hot favourites for a medal in 2012 London games.
