

Disability profiled at Nationals

Author: Paul Stimpson

Posted On: February 21, 2012

The English National Championships (2nd-4th March) is about promoting the best in English table tennis over an excitement-packed three days at Ponds Forge in Sheffield.

This includes a showcasing of the best disability talent this country has to offer with current World Number One Will Bayley taking on his sparring partner Aaron McKibbin, who has won seven medals in international events during his career.

Ahead of the big match that takes place on Sunday afternoon, we can provide you with profiles on both Will and Aaron, as well as the first reserve for the match, David Wetherill.

Read the profiles here.

Downloaded From:

<https://newsarchive.tabletennisengland.co.uk/news/archived/disability-profiled-at-nationals/>