Posted On: July 03, 2012

Club Leaders is part of the Olympic Legacy programme, Places People Play, and provides free training and support to those doing the day-to-day running of community sport, helping create a robust, economically sustainable and enterprising club network.

Club Leaders is being delivered by Pricewaterhouse Coopers (PwC) who are working with Sport England to help improve business skills in sports clubs by bringing their knowledge and experience to the programme.

The Club Leaders programme is not just about financial skills; other key business skills will be covered including modules on marketing, managing your club's assets and club governance. Having someone who is good in all these areas will really help your club.
