The Jack Petchey London Schools' Indoor Table Tennis Donation Scheme has yet again produced some impressive results after the second year of table tennis provision in secondary schools across the capital.

In September/October of 2012 53 schools were donated four table tennis tables each under the Jack Petchey Foundation's project, which means a total rollout of 212 tables this year.

In the newly-released findings it also shows that each school uses the tables for an average 11 hours per week with 94 students per school regularly attending table tennis sessions each week.

The news comes on the back of the announcement that the Jack Petchey Foundation will fund the programme for a third year with a boosted package of £177,000, meaning the programme will be bigger and better than ever before.

Two-hundred new tables and packs will be delivered to 50 further schools across London while the creation of new 'Table Tennis Academies' will ensure table tennis is played to the highest standard.

Listed below are a number of statistics from the survey conducted on year 2 of the Jack Petchey London Schools' Indoor Table Tennis Donation Scheme:

- 212 tables donated to 53 schools

- 4,969 young people have benefitted directly from the scheme (up 57% from year one)
- Jack Petchey tables have been used by young people at least 368,714 times
