The draws have been made for the singles and doubles events at the 2013 Liebherr European Championships in Austria with Daniel Reed's group draw alongside former world no. 1 and European Champion, Jean-Michel Saive, the standout tie.

Reed, who was in good form during the team campaign, will face the 43-year-old Belgian in Group 18 of the Men's Singles draw as well as Austria's Martin Storf and Norway's Eskil Lindholm.

With only one player progressing from each group into the main draw it puts real pressure on every fixture, in particular Andrew Baggaley could find Portugal's Andre Silva to be a difficult opponent in Group 22 – Silva having beaten Frenchman Adrien Mattenet (wr 42) earlier on Monday.

In-form Sam Walker will face tests from both Lubomir Pistej (SVK, 169) and Sas Lasan (SLO, 179) as well as Grand Prix regular Paul McCreery in his first match on Tuesday.

The English women will face a series of difficult challenges as only Joanna Drinkhall has been seeded top of her qualification group. While the English no. 1's draw looks favourable, no. 2 Kelly Sibley will face a battle against Hana Matelova (CZE, 181) and both Tin-Tin Ho and Hannah Hicks face at least two opponents ranked higher in the world.
