Tickets for the table tennis event at the Glasgow 2014 Commonwealth Games will become available once more next Monday, October 21st at 10am after a second round of updates was announced by Glasgow 2014.

There are ten days of competition for table tennis at the Scotstoun Sports Campus (West End) with ten competition tables, including two show courts, ready to host the best singles, doubles and team players from across the Commonwealth with the English stars looking to pick up more medals after successes in Manchester ('02), Melbourne ('06) and Delhi ('10).

You can make sure you secure your spot in Glasgow by applying during the sale periods below.

The exclusive on-sale period will run from 10am on Monday, 21 October to Saturday, 26th October, with the first two days – Monday 21st and Tuesday 22nd – dedicated exclusively to those who received no tickets from their application.

From 10am on Wednesday 23 October applicants who received some of their requested tickets in the application period will also be able to access the Ticketing website. On Friday 25 and Saturday 26 October everyone who applied for tickets will have an exclusive second chance to top-up their ticket account before all remaining tickets go on general public sale.
