The Bribar Nottingham Grand Prix returns to the series this season at this weekend's (December 7-8th) event with nearly 200 entrants taking part.

The Grand Prix at the University of Nottingham's Jubilee Sports Centre also sees the return of former Men's Singles Overall Champion, Scotland's Gavin Rumgay, who hasn't been involved since the season opener in Liverpool where he finished runner-up to current series leader Ryan Jenkins.

Kelly Sibley, fresh from her victory at the Bribar Bistol Grand Prix, will again lead the way in the Women's Singles and could face an exciting final with local Nottingham Trent University student, Emma Vickers.

As usual there will be a full day of banded events to begin the competition on Saturday followed by the Men's and Women's Singles on Sunday morning and the under-21s, doubles and veterans on Sunday afternoon.

You can see both the full online programme and latest Grand Prix points at the links below. Remember, there will be no printed programmes at the venue.
