

Susie Hughes is new deputy chair at Table Tennis England

Author: Paul Stimpson

Posted On: May 16, 2014

Susie Hughes

Susie Hughes has been elected unopposed as Deputy Chair of Table Tennis England.

She will take up her post immediately, replacing Richard Scruton, who stepped down in April in order to concentrate on his position of Secretary-General of the ETTU.

Susie, who has a background in corporate communications, joined the Board of the ETTA a year ago as Vice-Chairman (Communications).

She has played table tennis since she was a teenager and currently plays in the Liverpool and Southport leagues, at VETTS events, in the British League and at county level.

She said: "I'm delighted to take on this role and thank the counties and leagues who nominated me. I see it as a sign that we are working together and heading in the right direction for table tennis."

Paul Stimpson (16th May 2014)

Downloaded From:

<https://newsarchive.tabletennisengland.co.uk/news/featured-news/susie-hughes-is-new-deputy-chair-at-table-tennis-england/>