

This Girl Can – Clubs

Author: Paul Stimpson

Posted On: January 12, 2015

Joining a table tennis club is an easy process. With most clubs you will be able to just turn up at one of their practice sessions and play, or you can contact the club in advance if you wish for further information before attending.

You don't have to be an experienced table tennis player to join a club, you can simply come along on a social basis and enjoy yourself. Many experienced club members started on this basis themselves and have now progressed to play in their local leagues.

In addition you don't have to spend a fortune to join a table tennis club. Most clubs will offer free trial sessions and for those who wish to continue playing on a regular basis there are options for an annual subscription which offers very good value and includes league fees and other match expenses for those playing in the league.

If you are interested in joining a club use the Spogo tool below to find your nearest.

Downloaded From:

<https://newsarchive.tabletennisengland.co.uk/news/archived/this-girl-can-clubs/>