The 56th English Senior National Table Tennis Championships will commence on Friday February 28, 2015 and you can keep up-to-date with all the latest news, results and reaction right here with Table Tennis England.

The English National Championships is the most prestigious event in the English domestic table tennis calendar. Each year over 260 English competitors, from counties far and wide, battle it out to become English National champion in 11 categories.

The 2015 Championships will make its debut at the Jean Brown Indoor Arena in Redbridge, Essex, from February 27 through to March 1, 2015. Play starts at 1pm on Friday with the Men's and Women's Veterans and Under-21s. Table Tennis England will provide coverage throughout the three days of high-class action through Twitter, Facebook, YouTube and our website.

Attend

We are pleased to announce that Table Tennis England have partnered with ticketing providers SeeTickets.com to sell tickets for the event. Admission for spectators is free of charge on Friday, whilst ticket prices begin at £4.40 for Saturday's play and just £5.50 for the finals day on Sunday March 1. There are additional discounts for group bookings and concessions. ## Watch

You can watch live action throughout the weekend on the Table Tennis England YouTube channel with the dedicated live feed broadcasting the top matches. Commentary will be provided from a range of sources and we will also be running a live chat session.

Interact

Get in touch via our social media channels as we'll be giving regular updates on both Twitter and Facebook where you can use the #TTNationals to follow the action and tweet your replies. We'll also keep you updated with the latest live stream schedule which may change throughout the course of the weekend, so make sure you stay online to keep track of your favourite players.

Inform and Prepare

Get yourself ready for a weekend of action with our dedicated National Championships microsite. It will provide the latest results, schedule, reports and archive material for you to monitor the progress of the tournament at your own leisure.
