Datto Ping! Leeds was very much the main attraction at the Leeds Healthy Heart Corporate Walk today which encourages workers to reclaim their lunch hour and get active to improve overall health and well-being. The event hosted by Heart Research started from the hub in Park Square where several activities including Table Tennis were on offer. Representatives from local companies were also given the chance to win a free 'Loop at Work' table package for their office by registering their contact details. Development Officer- North, Sally Shutt commented "This was an excellent opportunity for us to be part of an event which encourages the workforce to be active especially in their lunch hour. The ethos of this event fits in perfectly with our 'Loop at Work' offer and we have hopefully encouraged local businesses to see the benefits of providing a table in the workplace." This is also an excellent location for a Datto Ping! table as it is surrounded by offices mainly in the corporate and legal sector which will encourage staff to have a game during their breaks and lunchtimes.
