

Disappointment as English players Czech out

England's interest in the Czech Open ended as all singles and doubles entries bowed out in the early stages in Olomouc.

Liam Pitchford and Sam Walker both had a chance to finish top of their qualifying groups and Pitchford kept up his side of the bargain with a 4-2 victory over Leonardo Mutti of Italy.

However, a 4-3 win for China's Li Yieji over Qui Dang of Germany was enough to take him through, with Pitchford left in second place.

Walker needed a win over Abdel-Kader Salifou and it was a tight match which swung both ways before the Englishman was beaten on deuce in the deciding seventh.

David McBeath, having lost his first two group matches, ended on a high with a win over Slovakia's Adam Brat.

With Denise Payet and Hannah Hicks already out of the singles, Tin-Tin Ho had a chance to win her group today but was defeated 4-1 by Russia's world No 136 Olga Vorobeva.

In the doubles, Ho and Austria's Amelie Solja won their first preliminary-round match against Czech opposition but were then defeated in a close match by Nina Mittelham of Germany & Sarah De Nutte of Luxembourg.

And Walker & McBeath, who also won their first match against host-nation opponents, were then overcome, also in a tight encounter, in the second preliminary round by Cristian Pletea & Hunor Szocs of Romania.
