The prices have been set for ITTF Team World Cup 2018 tickets, which go on general sale on November 1.

There are three age brackets – adults; concessions for over-65s and 11s-16s; under-11s. In addition, family tickets are available for all four days of the event, which runs from February 22 to 25, 2018.

The first three days of the event are broken down into two separate sessions, with an option for an all-day ticket. The last day, featuring the men's and women's finals, will be played as one session.

Full prices are detailed below. Tickets will be available through our partners at The Ticket Factory.

All those Table Tennis England members who have pre-registered to receive a 15% discount will be contacted by The Ticket Factory in the coming days to arrange their ticket purchases. Purchases will need to be completed on or before October 31, before the tickets go on general sale, in order to qualify for the discount.

The event is being held in the iconic Copper Box Arena in London's Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park, a fabulous venue dubbed 'the box that rocks' during the London 2012 Olympics and Paralympics because of the atmosphere created by the passionate spectators.

There is a capacity of 2,000 on the first two days, rising to around 2,800 on days three and four. With more than 800 members having pre-registered, we anticipate the number of available tickets will fall considerably by the time of going on general sale. Therefore, we recommend booking tickets at the earliest opportunity.

There will be an ongoing 15% discount for clubs buying packages of at least 10 tickets, available after November 1. For more information on this, please email marketing@tabletennisengland.co.uk

We are also recruiting a team of volunteers for the event. To register your interest, please email marketing@tabletennisengland.co.uk
