

Womens Team in the Semi Finals

Author: Malcolm Macfarlane

Posted On: October 06, 2010

England's Womens team came through the quarter-finals today with a superb 3-1 win over Canada. None of this 45 minutes stuff for the women, it took a full 2 hours to overcome Canada

It did not start so well though, as world no 157 Zhang Mo took a 3-0 win over new England No 1 Kelly Sibley in the first individual match.

It was Joanna Parkers day today, two superb 3-0 wins over first Sara Yuen and then Zhang Mo. In between Hannah Hicks kept her unbeaten run going with a 3-1 win over Carmen Lee.

The girls must overcome the Home Country, India tomorrow to reach the finals, with the losing semi-finalists entering into a battle for the last medal.

India took an excellent 3-1 win over Australia today to win that spot and will be a handful on home soil with a partisan support I am sure.

To view the results for the England match against Canada click here

Photo: Joanna Parker two super wins today

By Malcolm Macfarlane

Add this?

Why not add this content to anyone of the 250 + social networking sites. Simply click the 'SHARE' button below and post content you like to your Facebook, Twitter or any other social network you wish.

It's easy, quick and a great way to share info with your friends.

Downloaded From:

<https://newsarchive.tabletennisengland.co.uk/news/archived/womens-team-in-the-semi-finals/>