Do you want to emulate the top players in the world by showcasing your table tennis skills at the Copper Box Arena?

The iconic venue on London's Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park is hosting the Corporate Table Tennis finals – the day after the Team World Cup comes to a thrilling end.

There is still a few weeks left to enter the event and give your corporate team the chance to play for a place at those finals, which will be on the evening of Monday February 26.

And while a capacity crowd similar to that expected at the World Cup final the previous day cannot be promised, competitors will still have the thrill of gracing the same arena as the likes of Ma Long, Dimitrij Ovtcharov and Ding Ning – not to mention the England Leopards teams – and of lifting a national trophy!

Corporate Table Tennis are accepting entries from teams of three players – all standards welcome – up to Friday December 29th. Workplaces with fewer than 150 staff are permitted to play with two colleagues and one guest.

Teams will play in local qualifying matches, bidding to seal one of those all-important spots at the Copper Box Arena.

Not only is it a great chance to build teamwork in your workplace and to network with other local businesses, but it can also lead to a once-in-a-lifetime experience.

To enter a team, and for more information, simply visit the Corporate Table Tennis website.
